

THEATRE AND DRAMA, BS

A degree in Theatre and Drama from the University of Wisconsin–Madison opens doors to a wide range of careers. Our alumni are successful in theatre, film, television, gaming, production management, development, design, education, and all aspects of the entertainment industry. Our faculty are active theatre professionals who bring current and practical knowledge into the classrooms and productions. Our department is well known for the individual attention, mentoring, and commitment we give our students.

Through mainstage, open-stage, and student-produced works, the Department of Theatre and Drama provides students with excellent opportunities to apply the skills and techniques learned in the classroom within fully staged productions.

Theatre and Drama majors will complete a Bachelor of Science degree in Theatre and Drama through the School of Education. Students may informally select areas of emphasis such as design, stage management, directing, acting, or theatre technology.

Majors whose primary interest is acting may pursue the Acting Option (<http://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/education/theatre-drama/theatre-drama-bs/theatre-drama-acting-bs/>). This highly structured program of study offers students a deeper practical knowledge and experience of the skills required to pursue professional work as an actor and/or advanced studies in theatre. Students are highly mentored and will benefit from personalized performance reviews with the acting faculty at the end of each semester. Upon completion, this named option will be formally documented on the student's transcript.

Admission to the Acting Option is by audition only; auditions are announced at the midpoint of each semester and require the completion of certain courses. Students in the Acting Option are expected to audition for University Theatre (UT) productions to gain experience and support a robust UT season. Contact the department advisor for more information on the Acting Option and audition process.

Non-majors who wish to extend their familiarity with theatre in theory and practice are encouraged to enroll in department courses and participate in productions. The Certificate in Theatre (<http://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/education/theatre-drama/theatre-certificate/>) allows students from across campus, regardless of their major or degree program, to engage in a structured, meaningful theatre-related experience. The department has hosted students from many disciplines – such as law, business, medicine, art, dance, science, and social work – who wish to develop effective communication skills, enhance problem-solving abilities, and cultivate visual acumen.

APPLICATION AND ADMISSION

While new freshmen and off-campus transfers are admitted directly to the BS–Theatre and Drama degree program, all other current UW–Madison students seeking to enter the BS–Theatre and Drama program must apply for admission to the program. Students must make an appointment with the departmental advisor to complete the declaration form. Requirements and selection criteria may be modified from one application/admission period to the next.

Criteria for Admission

Eligibility for admission consideration to BS–Theatre and Drama:

- Cumulative grade-point average on all transferable college-level coursework of at least a 2.50 (on a 4.00 scale).<sup>1</sup>
- Cumulative grade point average of at least a 2.5 based on UW–Madison campus coursework, as modified by the Last 60 Credits Rule (detailed below).
- Submission of all required application materials, including program application and transcripts.

<sup>1</sup> A comprehensive cumulative GPA of all college-level, transferrable coursework attempted on both the UW–Madison campus coursework and coursework taken at any other colleges or universities may be calculated for the exclusive purpose of establishing an applicant's eligibility for consideration. Both the comprehensive cumulative GPA and the comprehensive cumulative GPA based on a student's last 60 credits may be calculated. See Last 60 Credits Rule (detailed below). If admitted, students must earn the minimum cumulative GPA for UW–Madison coursework established by their program and the School of Education each semester after admission.

Last 60 Credits Rule

Two grade point averages will be calculated to determine candidates' eligibility to programs. GPAs will be calculated using

- all transferable college level coursework attempted, and
- the last 60 credits attempted.

The higher GPA of these two will be used for purposes of determining eligibility. If fewer than 60 credits have been attempted, all credits will be used to calculate the GPA. Graded graduate coursework will also be used in all GPA calculations. ("Attempted" coursework indicates coursework for which a grade has been earned.) More information on this rule is available here (<http://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/education/#policiesandregulationtext>).

ADDITIONAL MAJOR IN THEATRE & DRAMA

Undergraduate students from all schools and colleges on campus (including Education) may declare Theatre and Drama as an additional major. Students wishing to declare the additional major must make an appointment with the departmental advisor to complete the declaration form. The declaration must also be approved by the student's home school/college.

Please note that the requirements of the additional major must be completed before or concurrently with the degree program and primary major.

REQUIREMENTS

UNIVERSITY GENERAL EDUCATION REQUIREMENTS

All undergraduate students at the University of Wisconsin–Madison are required to fulfill a minimum set of common university general education requirements to ensure that every graduate acquires the essential core of an undergraduate education. Various schools and colleges will have requirements in addition to the requirements listed below. Consult your advisor for assistance, as needed. For additional information, see the university Undergraduate General Education Requirements (<http://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/#requirementsforundergraduatestudytext>) section of the Guide.

General Education

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION LIBERAL STUDIES REQUIREMENTS

All students are required to complete a minimum of 40 credits of Liberal Studies (<http://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/education/#requirementsforundergraduatestudytext>) coursework. This requirement provides an opportunity to do some academic exploration beyond the scope of the major. Students take courses in areas of particular interest and also have an opportunity to sample the wide selection of courses offered across the university. Coursework is required in humanities, social studies, science, and cultural and historical studies. Some elective coursework is also needed to reach the required number of credits.

The School of Education's Liberal Studies Requirements automatically satisfy most of the University

General Education Requirements outlined above, including ethnic studies, humanities/literature, social studies, and science. Students pursuing most School of Education degree programs may also complete Communication Part B, Quantitative Reasoning Part A, and Quantitative Reasoning Part B through courses required by their degree program. If a student cannot complete a General Education Requirement within the curriculum of their chosen School of Education program, academic advisors can offer suggestions for courses that meet the requirement and augment the student's primary area of study.

A basic outline of the liberal studies is included below. Students must consult the detailed version of the requirements (<http://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/education/#requirementstext>) for information about course selection and approved course options.

Complete Liberal Studies Electives (<http://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/education/#requirementstext>) to total 40 Credits.

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

The Bachelor of Science (BS) degree program in Theatre and Drama has three primary components:

- Liberal studies courses expose students to a broad range of academic disciplines. The university-wide General Education requirements also encourage this breadth of study.
- Major requirements permit in-depth studies of theatre and drama.
- Additional electives to reach the minimum of 120 degree credits. These credits allow students to pursue individual areas of interest, such as a second major or additional theatre and drama credits. Many BS–Theatre and Drama students complete an additional major from the College of Letters & Science. Some use this major to complement their theatre preparation, while others select majors that reflect interests completely unrelated to theatre.

DEGREE AUDIT REPORTING SYSTEM (DARS)

UW–Madison uses “DARS” to document a student’s progress toward the completion of their degree, including any additional majors and certificates. A DARS (Degree Audit Reporting System) report shows all the requirements for completing a degree and, against courses that are planned or completed, shows the requirements that have been met, and those that are unmet. A report can offer suggestions about courses that may be taken to meet specific requirements and can assist in the academic planning and enrollment process. Students can access a DARS report in the Course Search & Enroll app or Student Center via My UW.

DARS also has a “what-if” function. This feature makes it possible to request a DARS report as if pursuing another program, major, or certificate. It is an excellent tool if considering a new or additional area of study. School of Education students in a pre-professional classification such as Pre-Elementary (PRE) or Pre-Kinesiology should request a “what if” DARS report of their professional program of interest.

More information on how to request a DARS report is available on the Office of the Registrar’s website (<https://registrar.wisc.edu/dars/>).

DARS is not intended to replace student contact with academic advisors. It creates more time in an advising appointment to discuss course options, research opportunities, graduate school, or issues of personal interest or concern to students.

DARS is used as the document of record for degree program, major, and certificate completion in the School of Education.

UNIVERSITY DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Total Degree To receive a bachelor’s degree from UW–Madison, students must earn a minimum of 120 degree credits. The requirements for some programs may exceed 120 degree credits. Students should consult with their college or department advisor for information on specific credit requirements.

Residency Degree candidates are required to earn a minimum of 30 credits in residence at UW–Madison. “In residence” means on the UW–Madison campus with an undergraduate degree classification. “In residence” credit also includes UW–Madison courses offered in distance or online formats and credits earned in UW–Madison Study Abroad/Study Away programs.

Quality of Work Undergraduate students must maintain the minimum grade point average specified by the school, college, or academic program to remain in good academic standing. Students whose academic performance drops below these minimum thresholds will be placed on academic probation.

PEOPLE

PEOPLE

Information about faculty, staff, and other contributors to the Department of Theatre and Drama can be found on the department's website. (<http://theatre.wisc.edu/>)

WISCONSIN EXPERIENCE

WISCONSIN EXPERIENCE

UW-Madison's vision for the total student experience, the Wisconsin Experience (<https://wisconsinexperience.wisc.edu/about/>), combines learning in and out of the classroom. Tied to the Wisconsin Idea (<https://www.wisc.edu/wisconsin-idea/>) and steeped in long-standing institutional values – the commitment to the truth, shared participation in decision-making, and service to local and global communities – the Wisconsin Experience describes how students develop and integrate these core values across their educational experience.

UW-Madison encourages students to mindfully engage in four core concepts throughout their time on campus: Empathy & Humility, Relentless Curiosity, Intellectual Confidence, and Purposeful Action (<https://wisconsinexperience.wisc.edu/intellectual-confidence/>).

Since its inception, the School of Education has embraced the concepts of the Wisconsin Experience, providing opportunities for students to learn in venues beyond the traditional classroom. Our students also independently seek out related activities and experiences, thus creating their own unique Wisconsin Experience.

THEATRE & DRAMA AND THE WISCONSIN EXPERIENCE

The spirit of the Wisconsin Experience and its core values sit at the center of the field of theatre and of all our activities in UW's Department of Theatre and Drama. Theatre is inherently communal and collaborative, engaging audiences from diverse communities to witness live performances reflecting the most important questions of our time. In the Department of Theatre and Drama, we seek to embrace these qualities, to train creative, hardworking, ethical, collaborative, interdisciplinary artists, technicians, and scholars – local and global citizens equipped to take on the challenges of the present and future.

We do this through a wide range of opportunities for students on campus and beyond. Available resources include production opportunities in the University Theatre program with a focus on community engagement, social justice, and ties to the professional theatre community, opportunities for student-led work in our season and through support of student organizations, curricular support for production and professional opportunities, access to guest artists, and work with Theatre and Drama faculty and staff research tied to the community.

University Theatre

The University Theatre (UT) program engages students on every facet of production, tied to the curriculum across all degree programs. The season is selected with an emphasis on providing students opportunities to apply their training in design, management, tech, and performance, with an emphasis on community engagement and outreach to campus and local communities as well as to the professional theatre community through work with guest artists. UT productions regularly engage with the Odyssey Program and PLACE, for student matinees and other programming, with the Interdisciplinary Theatre Studies Program and African American Studies, supporting guest artists with the Lorraine Hansberry Fund, as well as Office of Multicultural Arts Initiatives (OMAI) and the UW Division of the Arts, to name a few.

Second Stage

The Department of Theatre and Drama also regularly supports work generated by students and other arts organizations across campus and from local communities. These projects are supported with the department's resources through an application process each semester.

Student Organizations

Theatre students also have an opportunity to participate in student-run theatre groups. InterMission Theatre (<https://win.wisc.edu/organization/intermissiontheatre/>)#(IMT) empowers students to create performance art through interdisciplinary collaboration. Saying Theatre (<https://win.wisc.edu/organization/sayingtheatre/>)#presents and promotes Chinese culture through theatre arts.

Community Engaged Coursework

Several required and elective course offerings in Theatre and Drama are tied to the community and theatre professions. These include THEATRE 100 Experiencing Theatre, which exposes students to world-class theatre in Madison and globally, guest artists, and Theatre for Cultural and Social Awareness (<https://theatre.wisc.edu/academics/theatre-for-cultural-and-social-awareness/>) (TCSA).

Ties to the Profession

The University of Wisconsin–Madison Department of Theatre and Drama ensures its students are up-to-date with current practices in professional theatre through diverse initiatives. These include inviting industry professionals for class visits, organizing educational trips to companies such as Electronic Theatre Controls, INC. (ETC) to explore advanced technologies, American Players Theatre (APT), and facilitating residencies for professional artists through UT and special initiatives. These opportunities not only enhance students' academic journeys but also equip them for prosperous careers in several fields of the theatre and entertainment industry.

Through coursework and practice, UT and Second Stage programming, as well as engagement in both creative and special research projects, students in Theatre and Drama have multiple opportunities to work with faculty and staff who are actively working in their fields on campus, locally, and around the world. A few selected recent examples include work with faculty in the Odyssey Program and the First-Wave Hip-Hop Theatre Program, internships, assisting, and paid opportunities for research in immersive Theatre, design for video games, as well as with professional local theatres and scholarly conferences.

Study Abroad

The UW Theatre in London (#program) offers students a summer opportunity to be immersed in Britain's rich tradition of theatre-making. Students engage in class discussions and readings about British theatre and experience the culture, practice, methods, and results firsthand by attending a variety of productions abroad.

Career Advising and Internships

The School of Education Career Center (<https://careercenter.education.wisc.edu/>) has a designated advisor for arts students who can provide connections with hourly campus employment, internships, and career options after graduation.
